Foreword

During the last electoral cycle (2015-2019), the National Electoral Commission (NEC) successfully conducted its second multi-tier elections, judged by national and international observer missions to be transparent and credible. This was achieved despite financial and technical challenges and an environment of political intimidation and interference. Drawing from our experiences in the 2015-2019 electoral cycle in which NEC consolidated its gains for sustainability, the next electoral cycle (2020-2024) presents an opportunity for NEC to strengthen its capacity, lead processes of legal reform, work towards achieving operational and financial independence and achieve maximum delivery on its mandate. Thus, the theme for the next electoral cycle is 'Strengthening Electoral Processes for Maximum Performance'. Fully aware of the successes and challenges of the previous electoral cycle, and cognizance of the growing national and international interest in the conduct of credible elections as the basis for democratic consolidation and national development, NEC has reviewed its vision and internal policies to ensure it continues to be an independent, credible and well-resourced institution.

The Commission will continue to promote democratic good governance through the conduct of credible elections that meet international standards and the expectation of the Sierra Leoneans through a transparent and inclusive process. NEC will also focus on improving its data and result management systems, ensure electoral integrity and public acceptance of electoral outcomes, implementing enhanced systems and processes to ensure the efficient use of government and donor resources, whilst continuing its investment on staff capacity building to enhance the delivery of transparent, credible and violence-free elections. Fundamentally, the 2020-2024 Strategic Plan outlines the critical issues of the Commission, its objectives, strategies, activities and corresponding cost. One among many of the Commission's milestones for the 2020-2024 electoral cycle is to ensure the Commission is financially independent through the establishment of an elections trust fund and investment in the construction of NEC-owned offices across the country to consolidate the Commission's neutrality and independence. The Commission will invest in research and learning and build local and international trust in the delivery of its constitutional mandate. The Commission acknowledges the invaluable contribution and support by successive governments, management and staff, its legal retainers, stakeholders, other democratic institutions, donors and the government and people of Sierra Leone to its work. The Commission wishes to thank the consultant, Dr Idrissa Mamoud Tarawallie for his commitment and professionalism throughout the Strategic Plan development process.

Several individuals and organisations contributed in the development of 2020-2024 NEC Strategic Plan. We are greatly indebted to the Chairman and Chief Electoral Commissioner and his team of Commissioners for their commitment to the review and development process of the Strategic Plan. In particular, the unflinching commitment of Commissioner Edmond Alpha – the oversight Commissioner for the Strategic Plan development – his commitment, time and leadership in the development of the 2020-2024 strategic plan was exemplary and commendable. This finished product in the form of a strategic plan, to guide the activities of the Commission for the next 5 years was the product of a process that brought on board the Commission, its staff our donors and an external consultant. – their commitment, time and leadership in the development of the 2020-2024 strategic plan was exemplary and commendable. This finished product in the form of a strategic plan, to guide the activities of the Commission for the next five years was the product of a process that brought on board the Commission, its staff our donors and an external consultant. We are grateful to all the members of the Strategic Plan Development Committee of NEC for their commitment and contribution. This document would not have been possible without their dedication to the process.

The Commission is also grateful to management and all staff who made a significant contribution to the SP development process. The decision to involve a critical mass of the Commission's employees outside the national headquarters does not only provide a broad spectrum of input in the document, it also provides a sense of ownership across the over 200 employees of the Commission. The NEC 2020-2024 Strategic Plan benefited immensely from the professionalism and commitment of our SP development consultant Dr. Idrissa Mamoud Tarawallie. We are grateful for his strategic guidance and commitment throughout the process. Last, but by no means the least, is the technical and financial support from the EU Funded 'Technical Assistance in Sierra Leone in the areas of Civil Service Reform, Parliament and the Electoral Cycle' project for funding the SP development process and its overall support to the governance landscape and in the conduct of transparent and credible elections in Sierra Leone.

Executive Summary

The primary objective of the 2020-2024 Strategic Plan is to ensure a National Electoral Commission that is independent, credible and capable of delivering on its constitutional mandate of conducting transparent and credible elections within international best practices and meeting the expectations of Sierra Leoneans. To deliver on this mandate, and on the basis of our experience in the past, ten (10) strategic pillars – each with an overarching objective and implementation strategy - were identified. The 10 pillars hinge around the Commission's mandate, the processes we will follow to deliver on our responsibilities, the resources and capacity we will require to do so, the partners and actors we will need to support our work, and the public trust and confidence we consider critical to our work. The strategic plan therefore, clearly sets out what needs to be done, how we want to do what is to be done, and the resources and capacity support needed. To measure our progress over time, specific targets and outputs have been identified and agreed upon through which our success or otherwise will be measured. During the review process of the 2015-2019 SP, and as part of our ongoing experience in elections management, we identified a plethora of challenges that undermined the Commission's ability to deliver on its constitutional mandate. Some of these challenges include the lack of adequate, timely and consistent funding, political interference in the Commission's work, ambiguities and inconsistencies in electoral legal framework and lack of functional coherence among government agencies involved in the electoral process. Therefore, the objectives of the 2020-2024 strategic plan are, to:

- Ensure NEC's mandate is delivered in a legally sound environment appropriate for the fluid and changing electoral context;
- Provide a pathway for the sustainable funding of elections and election related activities;
- Provide a strategic direction for the Commission to deliver on its activities and programmes in an organized manner consistent with international best practices;
- Provide a framework for capacity building and institutional improvement within the Commission;
- Ensure the Commission operates efficiently and effectively, transparent and accountable to its stakeholders and donors;
- Optimize data and result management system and
- Provide a framework to assess and evaluate the Commission's delivery on its mandate and commitments.

In order to deliver on these strategic objectives, the Commission has chosen a strategic theme for the next five years titled "Strengthening Electoral Processes for Maximum Performance". The theme hinges on 10 strategic pillars:

- ◆ Strategic Pillar 1 – Institutional, Staff Capacity and Infrastructural Development
- ◆ Strategic Pillar 2 – Elections Financing, Accountability and Transparency
- ◆ Strategic Pillar 3 – Boundary Delimitation
- ◆ Strategic Pillar 4 – Voter Registration
- ◆ Strategic Pillar 5 – Electoral Legal Reforms
- ◆ Strategic Pillar 6 – Conduct of Elections and Referendum
- ◆ Strategic Pillar 7 – Electoral Education, Communication and Outreach
- ◆ Strategic Pillar 8 – Inclusion, Participation and Equity
- ◆ Strategic Pillar 9 – ICT and Result Management
- ◆ Strategic Pillar 10 – Research, Monitoring and Evaluation

The vision, approach and outcome of the 2020-2024 SP are summarized below:

VISION

To be an independent credible and well-resourced institution which promotes democracy and good governance by continually administering credible elections that meet international standards and practices.

- Provide a strategic direction for Commission to deliver on its activities and programmes in an organised manner consistent with internal best practices;
- Provide a framework for capacity building and institutional improvement within the Commission;
- Ensure the Commission operates efficiently and effectively;
- Optimise data and result management system;

OUTCOME

An independent, well resourced and credible institution.

Each strategic pillar has an objective or set of objectives broken down into specific activities spread across the five years of the electoral calendar. The implementation of these activities will serve as critical success factor for achieving the objectives of each pillar and the SP itself.

Activities have been costed and the details costing have been consolidated to provide a “Summary of Cost Projections” roughly amounting to Nine Hundred and Sixty Billion, One Hundred and Eighteen Million Leones (SLL 970,528,000,000), about $ 97,053 million dollars for the entire 2020-2024 electoral calendar. The contents of this plan have also been broadly structured into six chapters, namely:

1. Profile of the National Electoral Commission Mission, Vision, Guiding Principles, Purpose and Process of Strategic Development.
2. Institutional Assessment of NEC.
3. Strategic Direction 2020-2024.
4. Electoral Calendar.
5. Costed Activities Plan.
6. Monitoring and Evaluation Framework.

The key highlight of the strategic plan is the Electoral Calendar which provides detailed timelines on:

- a) Voter Register Update.
- b) Boundary Review/Delimitation.
- c) Local Government Elections.
- d) Referendum.<sup>1</sup>
- e) Village Head Elections.
- f) Local Council Elections.
- g) Presidential and Parliamentary Elections, and
- h) Contextual externalities that may affect the effective roll out of the electoral calendar.

To conclude, the SP takes into account the external views and reviews of stakeholders, the strategic vision of the NEC, the existing legal framework and international best practices and the contextual risks associated with its successful implementation. It is expected that it will form the basis for funding partners - mainly the Government of Sierra Leone and international development partners - to galvanize financial and technical resources to support the electoral programmes outlined in 2020-2024 electoral cycle.

SECTION ONE: INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background

The National Electoral Commission (NEC) was established by Section 32(1) of the 1991 constitution of Sierra Leone with a responsibility for the 'conduct and supervision of the registration of voters for, and of, all public elections and referenda'. However, the current NEC was established in 2002 replacing the Interim National Electoral Commission (INEC) that was instituted during the war years. The Commission has graduated from the stages of Reform in 2005, capacity development in 2009 and "consolidation for sustainability" in 2015. After the successful conduct of the 2018 general and local government elections and the lesson learnt through the 2015-2019 electoral cycle, NEC is motivated to positioning itself as a transparent and credible elections management body with the use of secured and advance technology to improve on elections result management and to gain public trust on electoral processes and outcomes. To achieve this, the Commission will continue to invest in its institutional capacity strengthening, prudent use of resources, and review of the electoral legal framework, while remaining transparent and inclusive in the management of public elections. Going forward therefore, the theme for the 2020-2024 Strategic Plan that will guide the activities and trajectory of the Commission for the next five years is "Strengthening Electoral Processes for Maximum Performance". The theme hinges on 10 strategic pillars to deliver on the Commission's mandate of conducting transparent and credible public elections that are within international standards and meet the expectations of Sierra Leoneans.

1.2 Vision and Mission

 VISION	 MISSION
To be an independent, credible and well-resourced institution which promotes democracy and good governance by continually administering credible elections that meet international standards and best practices.	To conduct all public elections and referenda, register all eligible voters, demarcate electoral boundaries, impartially serve all stakeholders, undertake electoral education and make regulations for the efficient execution of our functions in promoting sustainable democracy and good governance.

1.3 Guiding Principles

In order to build an institution that continues to successfully deliver on its constitutional mandate, and to become a world class institution in the conduct of transparent and credible elections, it is important the Commission is guided by core values which keeps its workforce motivated, engaged and trusted. The Commission shall therefore endeavor to uphold the following guiding principles.

ACCOUNTABILITY

The Commission shall take full responsibility for its activities and will always be answerable to the people of Sierra Leone and its partners.

CREDIBILITY

The Commission shall endeavour to win the confidence and trust of all Sierra Leoneans and the international community through the quality of its services.

INDEPENDENCE

The Commission shall ensure that it operates freely on its own best judgment, without taking directives from or being controlled by any person or authority.

INTEGRITY

The Commission shall carry out its activities in an honest and truthful manner, and will take all reasonable measures to prevent wilful wrongdoings by its officials.

IMPARTIALITY

The Commission shall always be nonpartisan and fair in all its activities.

PROFESSIONALISM

The Commission shall endeavour to have a well-trained, professionally competent, motivated and confident staff, dedicated to the delivery of trustworthy elections.

TRANSPARENCY

The Commission shall be open at all times in dealing with all stakeholders in the electoral process.

1.4 Purpose of the Strategy

During the 2015-2019 electoral cycle, a number of challenges were identified with negative impact on the Commission's ability to effectively deliver on its constitutional mandate of conducting all public elections in a free, fair and transparent manner.<sup>2</sup> The Commission's 2020-2024 Strategic Plan is therefore an action-oriented practical guide that sets out what and how the Commission wants to achieve in the next five years, the resources and partnership it will need to do so and how the Commission's success in the delivery of its mandate can be assessed and measured. Essentially, the strategic plan is a dynamic and adaptive roadmap for the work of the Commission for the next five years.

The main objectives of the strategy are to:

- Ensure NEC's mandate is delivered in a legally sound environment appropriate for the fluid and changing electoral context;
- Provide a pathway for the sustainable funding of elections and election related activities;
- Provide strategic direction for the Commission to deliver on its activities and programmes in an organized manner consistent with international best practices;
- Provide a framework for capacity building and institutional improvement within the Commission;
- Ensure the Commission operates efficiently and effectively, transparent and accountable to its stakeholders and donors;
- Optimize data and result management;
- Provide a framework to assess and evaluate the Commission's delivery on its mandate.

1.5 Process of Developing the Strategic Plan

The process of developing the strategic plan involved substantial internal and external consultations guided by a commitment to promote ownership of the SP by NEC and its partners. The approach was a combination of review, consultation and iterative development. First, the focus was to review the implementation of the 2015-2019 plan to take stock of milestones and challenges. The second phase was to develop a new strategic plan for the next electoral cycle: 2020-24. For this purpose, NEC was supported by an external consultant with funding from the European Union. The internal review process was led by the Commission's Strategic Plan Development Committee Chaired by the Director of Research, Monitoring and Evaluation and supervised by the Commissioner of the Southern Region, who also doubles as the oversight Commissioner for Strategic Plan development within NEC. During the review stage, the Consultant developed a self-audit tool that was completed by NEC staff. The self-audit tool took stock of the commitments by NEC in the 10 pillars of the 2015-2019 Strategic Plan with a request on two simple outcomes of 'Done' and 'Not Done' for all activities and for all years for the 2015-2019 SP.

After the completion of the self-audit tool, the consultant reviewed and analyzed the responses after supporting evidence has been provided. The findings of the review process were presented in two review workshops; one with NEC Staff only and another with key stakeholders. This approach was agreed with the leadership of the Commission since it was difficult to conduct a thorough review of the previous Strategic Plan as it had no tangible Monitoring and Evaluation Framework. It was therefore the decision of the Commission to make the review process simple and top line only. To support the evidence from the review process, the consultant conducted interview sessions with the five NEC Commissioners, donor partners and other government ministries agencies to understand what worked well in the previous electoral cycle, what were the challenges and their suggested pathways for the next electoral cycle.

2 See section 2.6 below for details on the milestones and challenges of the 2015-2019 electoral cycle.

The second phase was the development of the 2020-2024 strategic plan which was a highly consultative process between the leadership of the Commission, the SP development committee and the consultant. In a five day SP development workshop with NEC staff facilitated by the Consultant, the team agreed on a set of strategic pillars for the next five years based on the learning on of the review process of 2015-2019. The pillars were then broken into activities, which were costed and a monitoring and evaluation framework developed. The consultant compiled all that was done in the five day SP development session and produced the first draft of the SP which received several internal reviews before it was presented to stakeholders – political parties, MDAS, international development partner, civil society and religious groups – to review the draft plan. Following the stakeholder engagement and their recommendations, two new pillars were added to the strategic plan to take onboard concerns and recommendations from stakeholders around election financing, accountability and transparency and effective participation and inclusion. Following this uptake, a second review process was led by the consultant with NEC staff leading to the development of an advance draft which was finalized and presented to stakeholder for validation.

Before this review and validation, the office of Chief Electoral Commissioner (CEC) and Chairman of the NEC became vacant. A new Chief Electoral Commissioner (CEC) was appointed subsequently around May/June 2020. Following his appointment, the new CEC took time to review the draft strategic plan and the operations of NEC in a holistic manner. Following his review, the leadership of the Commission recommended the expansion of the management team from 10 directorate to 15 with a new operational organogram.<sup>3</sup> The comments and suggestion of the CEC were taken on board into a revised and update Strategic Plan leading to internal (NEC) and stakeholder validation sessions. The first was internal to NEC, whilst the second brought together wider stakeholders in the electoral and governance process – including the diplomatic and donor community, political parties, Government Ministries and Departments, CSOs and other governance and security sector institutions. During the external validation process, the document was thoroughly reviewed and unanimously validated and considered a critical guiding framework in the Commission's work for the 2020-24 electoral cycle.

SECTION TWO: INSTITUTIONAL ASSESSMENT

2.1 Review of Electoral Commissions in Sierra Leone

The National Electoral Commission (NEC) of Sierra Leone was created by Section 32(1) of the 1991 Constitution of Sierra Leone with responsibility for the conduct and supervision of the registration of voters for, and of, all public elections and referenda'.<sup>4</sup> However, the current NEC was established in 2002 replacing the Interim National Electoral Commission (INEC) that was instituted during the war years. The leadership of NEC constitutes four commissioners, each representing a region<sup>5</sup> of the country, with a Chairman and Chief Electoral Commissioner who is also the National Chief Returning Officer - making a total of five commissioners. The Commission's functions are delivered through 16 district offices responsible for the management and conduct of elections within their area of jurisdiction. At the national level, NEC has a national headquarters in the central business district of Freetown, with a secretariat and 10 (with a proposal to increase these to 15) directorates headed by an Executive Secretary.<sup>6</sup> Between 2009 and 2014, NEC completed an institutional restructuring process leading to creation of new departments and a review of the management reporting lines.<sup>7</sup> As part of the review process for the development of the 2020-24 Strategic Plan, the leadership of the Commission agreed to expand the management team from ten to fifteen directorates to reflect the change nature of the work of the Commission and to strengthen its operational coherence. The below organogram indicates the proposed administrative structure of the Commission effective 2021:

2.2 The 2018 Public Election and Post Elections Context

Sierra Leone's 2018 general elections were judged by international and domestic observers to be professionally administered and largely consistent with international standards.<sup>8</sup> However, the context under which they were conducted was marred with politically-motivated violence, political intimidation, ethno-political rivalry, lack of clarity between NEC and NCRA in voter registration, lack of resources and capacity for NEC. The election was also conducted under a high stake environment for both ruling and opposition parties, especially on who to succeed the then out-going President, Dr. Ernest Bai Koroma. Within the SLPP (the then opposition party) for instance, a spate of lawsuits, counter lawsuits, and internal infighting between competing factions led to violence, including the fatal stabbing of a party supporters from rival groups. In a civil society radio and television discussion programme in May 2017, titled 'National Dialogue' organised by the Sierra Leone Association of Journalists (SLAJ), the then Chairperson and Chief Electoral Commissioner of NEC stated that the challenges NEC faced in the 2018 electoral cycle could only be likened to those faced by Interim National Electoral Commission (INEC) in 1996 when the country was at war. In practical terms, the marriage between NEC and the NCRA in voter registration and the redistricting made possible by the Provinces Act of 2017 after the initial boundary delimitation has been completed, put a heavy burden on the Commission's resources and timeline.

Following the inconclusive nature of the first round of elections,<sup>9</sup> a presidential run-off election was slated for March 27, 2018. However, as NEC was getting ready to conduct the run-off election, a temporary injunction was granted by the High Court of Sierra Leone two days to the run-off election, on Saturday 24th March 2017, after an application was made to the High Court by a Freetown-based lawyer Ibrahim-Sorie Koroma. The court's decision sent shock waves across the country over the electoral process and created a state of 'go slow'. The court injunction was lifted on Monday 26th March 2018, following huge public interest and outcry. As the nation waited the announcement of the run-off election, an atmosphere of fear and anxiety persisted across the country. The uncertainty then, was whether the political aspirants will accept the outcome of the elections and work together in the national interest.

During the period under review, the reputation of NEC – especially its neutrality and its ability to conduct free fair and credible elections – was questioned. The conduct of local council bye election in Tonko Limba in Kambia District, Koya in Port Loko District and in Constituency 110 in the Western Area Rural left NEC's integrity badly bruised after political party thugs entered polling stations and destroyed ballot boxes containing ballot papers. In addition to such public perception about NEC in recent times, the Commission also operates under a moribund legal framework that requires urgent review, including the 2012 Public Elections Act which many commentators – including NEC – believe requires urgent amendment. Together with legal limitations and financial challenges, the Commission requires a re-focused communication strategy to re-engage with the public and strengthen its relations with key stakeholders.

<sup>9</sup> The Constitution of Sierra Leone provides that a presidential candidate needs 55% of the valid votes to be declared a winner. Where no candidate secures 55%, the two top candidates will go into a presidential runoff election decided by a simple majority.

2.3 2020 -2024 SP Alignment

with National Development Agenda

The Commission's 2020-2024 Strategic Plan aligns with and compliments the Government of Sierra Leone National Development Agenda – Sierra Leone's Mid Term National Development Plan (2019) - on a number of policy clusters. For instance, cluster 3, Infrastructure and Economic Competiveness, sub-cluster 3.1 on energy is consistent with the Commission's commitment to invest in renewable energy through solar power installations at its HQ and district offices. The entire Cluster 4 on governance and accountability for result is consistent with the SP overall mandate to conduct transparent and credible elections for democratic consolidation and national development. Additionally, the SP is also consistent with Clusters 5 and 6 on youth and women empowerment and their inclusion in the governance and electoral processes. The Commission is cognisance of its critical role in national development and will always strive to ensure that it delivers on its mandate and contribute to overall national development aspirations.

2.5 2015-2019 SP Self Audit Review: Milestone, Challenges and Lessons Learnt

During the 2015-2019 electoral cycle, the Commission set out ambitious goals and activities espoused in 10 strategic pillars and over 300 activities spread over five years. As part of the development of the 2020-2024 Strategic Plan, the Commission agreed on a top level assessment on the extent of activity delivery.<sup>10</sup> The self-assessment tool kit simply sought to ascertain when an activity was done or not done. Whilst the decision of done or not done relied on means of verification, the exercise was largely an internal institutional self-assessment based on honest self-assessment. On the basis of this tool kit, NEC judged itself to have delivered 180 of its 309 planned activities in the 2015-2019 electoral cycles, representing a 58% delivery rate. On a yearly basis, the graph below shows 2017 was the best performing year while 2019 was the worst performing year. This clearly explains the hype in activities close to election and a lull thereafter.

2015-2019 SP activity delivery rate

<sup>10</sup> We emphasize that this is a top level assessment of not necessarily quality of delivery and performance, but the status of activity completion measure whether an activity was done or not. There was no mid-way point of ongoing. An activity was either done or not done. We emphasized on means of verification to justify whether an activity was done or not done.

Cumulatively over the last five years, pillar nine - conduct of elections and referenda and pillar five - electoral education and outreach, are the best performing pillars. Conversely, pillars one – Institutional capacity – and three – infrastructural development – are the least performing ones. In addition to the top level assessment of SP activity delivery in the previous electoral cycle, NEC acknowledge that while significant progress was made in the delivery of the set out activities, the targets the Commission sets itself in the previous electoral cycle were indeed ambitious. However, the Commission was able to reach the following key milestones:

MILESTONES - NEC SP 2015-2019

1. Delimitation of Constituency and Ward Boundaries

The Commission successfully drew ward and constituency boundaries despite the last minute redistricting and deamalgamation processes and the need to redraw the boundaries.

2. Joint registration of voters with NCRA and successful Issuance of ID card to voters

NEC completed the registration of voters in partnership with the NCRA despite technical challenges with the voter registration equipment. The Commission also distributed over 95% of Voter ID Card across the Country.

3. Printing of voter education and polling materials for the conduct of elections

NEC printed and distributed over 50,000 pieces of voter education materials used for voter education before, during and after the elections.

4. Improved election results management system

The Commission setup a result management system which improved the collation of results from the polling station through to regional tally centres and announcement of results in real time.

5. Finalization and validation of NEC Gender and Disability Policies

As part of the Commission's elections management inclusion strategy, NEC developed and rolled out its Gender and Disability Policies and created a Gender and Disability unit.

6. Implementation of SAGE Software and Human Resource Information Systems (HRIS)

To strengthen the Commission's financial and HR management processes and efficiency, NEC procured and installed SAGE and HRIS software.

7. Study tours, elections observation, professional training and networking for communications for NEC Staff

As part of the learning and interaction with outside institutions and networks, the commission funded over 10 study trips and elections observation mission outside of Sierra Leone during the period under review.

8. Successful conduct of the 2018 presidential, parliamentary and local council elections, PCMP and 2017 Village Head Elections

Perhaps the biggest milestone of the Commission is the successful conduct of the 2018 presidential, parliamentary and local council elections in addition to the PCMP and Village Head elections in the western area.

9. Complete the construction of National Warehouse Wellington

To promote an effective and safe management and storage of NEC materials, equipment and property, the Commission completed the construction of its Warehouse in the east end of Freetown.

CHALLENGES

Despite the major milestones reached, the Commission faced serious challenges which inhibited its capacity to deliver on some of its core activities in the previous electoral cycle.

1. Ambiguities and inconsistencies with the legal framework governing the elect. process

The Commission operated in a legal framework that was ambiguous and lacks cohesion with other state institutions. The Constitution of Sierra Leone 1991 (Act No. 6 of 1991) for instance is at odds with other legal provision such as the NCRA Act of 2016.

2. Untimely political decision of redistricting affected the process of Boundary Delimitation and compilation of the voter register

The Provinces Act (CAP 60) as amended in 2018 compelled NEC to set ward and constituency boundaries in line with the new districts and local councils created by the Act at a time when the Commission was overstretched and the first Boundary Delimitation had been completed.

3. Funding

Funding from GoSL to the Commission was untimely.

4. Political Interference

Delay in the announcement of registration and polling date, parliamentary obstacles on the BD, politically motivated court injunction, arbitrary arrest of NEC staff.

5. Environmental and Socio-Economic Challenges

The geography and road network in rural Sierra Leone posed a significant challenge to NEC's work, especially during the boundary delimitation and distribution of voting items. In many instances, NEC staff had to hire locally made canoes or walk on foot to reach certain communities. In addition to the geographical challenges, the Commission was also challenged by socio-economic and health issues such as the Ebola outbreak in 2014/15 and its impact on the economy, which had adverse effect on the lives of the people and their appetite for election related activities.

6. Information management within NEC

Confidentiality and oath of secrecy was eroded among some staff of the Commission during the 2015-2019 electoral cycle as information meant to be held secret within the Commission made its way to the public without due process. Such acts threatened the work of the Commission and put NEC to public ridicule and jeopardy.

7. Functional coherence

The Commission's work is complemented and sometimes shared with several other state agencies such as the Law Officers Department, the Judiciary, PPRC, NCRA and the Security Agencies. Unfortunately, whilst the Commission worked with these institutions, there was lack of functional coherence between the Commission and some of these agencies. For instance, the 1991 Constitution empowers NEC to register voters whilst section 25 of the NCRA Act gives authority to NCRA to register all residents in Sierra Leone (including non-Sierra Leoneans) and to make such information available to national institutions who need it such as NEC, for the purposes of national development planning. While this can be useful, it opens the room for usurpation and misunderstanding of functions and roles.

SECTION THREE: STRATEGIC DIRECTION

3.1 Strategic Goals

The strategic goals of the 2020-2024 Strategic Plan were developed through a consultative process with the leadership and management of the Commission and its stakeholders. They are consistent with electoral context of Sierra Leone, the national development agenda, the Commission's, vision, mission, and learning from the 2015-2019 electoral cycle. The strategic goals of the Commission for the next five years are:

- Ensure NEC's mandate is delivered in a legally sound environment appropriate for the fluid and changing electoral context;
- Provide a pathway for the sustainable funding of elections and election related activities;
- Provide strategic direction for the Commission to deliver on its activities and programmes in an organised manner consistent with international best practices;
- Provide a framework for capacity building and institutional improvement within the Commission;
- Ensure the Commission operates efficiently and effectively, transparent and accountable to its stakeholders and donors;
- Optimise data and result management system;
- Provide a framework to assess and evaluate the Commission's delivery on its mandate.

3.2 SP Objective, Pillars and Strategy

In addition to the overall goals of the 2020-2024 Strategic Plan outlined above, the commission will be guided by 10 strategic pillars, whose objectives, activities, implementation strategy and expected outcomes are detailed below:

Pillar 1:

INSTITUTIONAL, STAFF CAPACITY & INFRASTRUCTURAL DEVELOPMENT

a. Pillar Issues/Challenges

The main issues, challenges and limitations identified under this pillar are as follows:

- The Commissioners' oversight on their assigned function is inadequate;
- The Commission lacks a structured pay and Compensation Scheme for its employees;
- That the Commission's organizational, HR and Financial Management policies and procedure are old and outdated;
- The Institute for Election Education and Civic Education is defunct;
- There are limited external trainings, coaching, and experience sharing/mentorship opportunities for NEC employees;
- Academic sponsorship (scholarships and or leave with pay) programmes for deserving staff are few and far between;
- The Commission has an urgent need to refurbish/Upgrade/Construct NEC's district, regional and HQ facilities (including offices, warehouse, tally centres, resources centre, situation room etc.);
- The Commission's transportation system is inadequate, old and broken;
- Asset management system is inadequate and unsystematic;
- Whilst the Commission has an GIS Laboratory, it is largely not functional.

b. Pillar Objective

The objective of this pillar is to 'Strengthen the capacity of NEC – its Commissioners, staff and infrastructure - to adequately deliver on its constitutional mandate of conducting free, fair and credible public elections and referenda'.

c. Pillar Strategy

To achieve the objective of the pillar, the Commission will be guided by the below strategy:

- A comprehensive review of the oversight responsibilities of Commissioners will be conducted to identify inadequacies and provide capacity support to the Commission to enhance coordination and delivery of oversight responsibilities;
- A comprehensive support package to include staff training, pay and remuneration scheme will be designed and rolled out;
- The Commission will develop/review its HR, Financial and Management Standard Operating Procedures (SoPs) and ICT policy to guide and improve its work;
- The Commission will resuscitate INEACE, (Through partnership with Higher Education Institutions);
- NEC will refurbish/construct infrastructural facilities at the district, regional and HQ levels.

e. Expected outcome

It is expected that if all the activities under this pillar are adequately implemented with the appropriate resources and the right time, the following outcomes will be achieved: "NEC staff and Commissioners have the relevant capacity, financial, technical and logistical support and remuneration required to deliver on their jobs".

Pillar 2:

ELECTIONS FINANCING, ACCOUNTABILITY AND TRANSPARENCY

a. Pillar Issues/Challenges

The Commission has identified the following issues/challenges as some of the major limitations that affects the smooth and effectively delivery on its constitutional mandate of conducting public election consistent with local law and within international best practices:

- The Commission lacks an independent funding mechanism for public elections, referenda and other relevant elections apart from Government of Sierra Leone and its developmen;
- Government of Sierra Leone funding is inadequate, untimely and irregular;
- In many instances, NEC has been judged by its stakeholders and some donors to be less transparent, less interactive and unaccountable to stakeholders and international donors in its management of resources, its decision making process and administrative systems.

b. Pillar Objective

This pillar has two objectives:

- Sustainable, predictable independent, funding mechanism for public, referenda and other relevant elections.
- NEC is transparent and accountable to stakeholders and donors in the management of public and donor funding and its systems and processes.

c. Pillar Strategy

To achieve the objectives of the pillar, the Commission will be guided by the below strategy:

a. Pillar Issues/Challenges

The main issues, challenges and limitations which this pillars seeks to address are as follows:

- Electoral boundaries delimited close to elections and citizens are not properly informed about their wards and constituency boundaries;
- Some boundaries do not reflect geographic and socio-cultural ties;
- Undue political pressure on NEC in the drawing up of boundaries with the risk of gerrymandering;
- Whilst NEC conduct the Village Head Elections in the Western Area, it is not in charge of Village Specific Boundaries – this has technical and logical problems for NEC during such election;
- The Commission needs technical support to enhance its ability and efficiency in boundary delimitation.

b. Pillar Objective

The objective of this pillar is to 'produce electoral boundaries on time (constituencies, wards and villages) that are consistent with the law and reflect the geographic, socio-cultural and linguistic connection of constituents'.

c. Pillar Strategy

To achieve the objective of the pillar, the Commission will be guided by the below strategy:

- NEC will review the existing electoral boundaries in accordance with the relevant electoral laws.
- NEC will collaborate with the local government ministry and relevant MDAs for effective delimitation of village boundaries in the Western Area Rural district, including the proper naming of designated communities.
- NEC will sensitize the public early on the composition of constituency, ward and village (WARD C) boundaries.

- No diaspora voter registration despite the provision of section 16 of the Public Election Act (PEA 2012) for such;
- Although NEC is at liberty to generate its own voter register, it has no control over the NCRA data base;
- The voter register is not always produced on time as provided by law.

b. Pillar Objective

The objective of this pillar is to 'produce an accurate and timely voter register that represents the actual voting population of Sierra Leone and the Sierra Leonean diaspora'.

c. Pillar Strategy

To achieve the objective of the pillar, the Commission will be guided by the below strategy:

Electoral Context Externalities:

Potential Impact on the Electoral Calendar

This plan has been developed in understanding and recognition of existing contextual externalities outside the control of the Commission that may affect the planned roll out of the electoral calendar either in full or in part. However, the plan itself is designed to be flexible, adaptable and consistent with existing legal instruments guiding the work of the Commission. Therefore, in an event when it becomes necessary to make adjustment(s) to the plan (including the electoral calendar), the Commission will do so within the framework of existing legal legislation. The following externalities, have been identified:

1. Changes in the electoral legal framework – including other statutes related to the conduct of the elections:

The responsibility of law making, (including the repeal of existing laws) and other legal reforms is the responsibility of Parliament and not NEC. As a body created by law, NEC is bound to respect the decision of Parliament. In an event where Parliament makes and or repeal laws that affects the conduct of elections, NEC will apply the required legal adjustments in the plan in compliance with the legal provisions as promulgated by Parliament. The Commission is aware that, Cabinet has approved a new decentralisation policy which among other things made recommendation for the tenure of elected local council officials to be changed from four to five years. If this policy translates into law before the elections, this will certainly affect the proposed date for local council elections which is currently slated for mid-2022.

2. Update of Register of Voters ahead of Local Council Elections:

Potential changes in the date of local council elections as described in point one above has implications on other electoral activities; among them is the planned date for voter registration, exhibition and voter card distribution for local council elections. As per the Electoral Calendar, the update of Register of Voters for the 2022 local council elections is slated to be done in 2021. If by legal provisions (as in point one above) the date for local council elections changes, the date for the update of Register of Voters will change accordingly.

3. Significant Changes in Population Distribution across the Country (2020 to 2024):

In the current Electoral Calendar above, the next review of electoral boundaries is slated to take place between January and April 2024 consistent with the provisions of Part IV Section 38(4) of the 1991 Constitution. However, the Commission is aware that government has approved the conduct of a midterm housing and population census in April 2021. In a situation where the outcome of the census indicate a significant shift in the population distribution across the current electoral boundaries, the Commission will review the existing electoral boundaries to reflect the significant population shift following the legal provisions guiding such an action. If the proposed 2021 midterm census does not have significant population shift across the electoral boundaries, the Commission will maintain the existing boundaries based on the legal framework.

4. Funding:

Pillar two of the SP (see pages 22-23) identified funding as major challenge to the work of the Commission. As a response, the SP proposed the establishment of the National Electoral Sustainability Trust Fund - (NEST Fund) to provide for an independent and sustainable funding pathway for elections and election-related activities. The successful establishment of such a fund and the creation of a mechanism through which sustained contributions are made into the fund require collaborative effort of all actors – including Government, Political Parties, CSOs and our international development partners. While the Commission remains hopeful that the Government and international donor partners will honour their financial, technical and material support, the Commission had experienced previous funding limitations and above all is aware of the economic challenges resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic. If funding pledges are not translated into practical action, the electoral calendar may be derailed.

This list is not exhaustive of possible externalities that may affect the orderly roll out of the electoral calendar. It is meant to indicate that circumstances exist outside the control of the Commission that may affect its planned activity implementation. It is a demonstration of the Commission's awareness of these externalities and the willingness and capacity to review and adopt reforms along the way. In annex name one (named risk matrix) of this document, the Commission also separately identified a set of risks that may potentially affect not only the electoral calendar, but the entire electoral cycle. The risks identified across the five pillars were each rated in terms of their likelihood and impact and the Commission's planned mitigation action for each risk. Overall, NEC is confident that the electoral calendar will be rolled out as planned, and where adjustment and or changes are required, the Commission will do so following the appropriate guiding legal framework.
